The Child Went Forth

*There was a child went forth every day,
And the first object she looked upon
That object she became,
And that object became part of her
For the day
or a certain part of the day,
Or for many years
or stretching cycles of years . . .*

*I was the world in which I walked, and what I saw
Or heard or felt came not but from myself;
And there I found myself more truly and more strange.*

— Wallace Stevens —

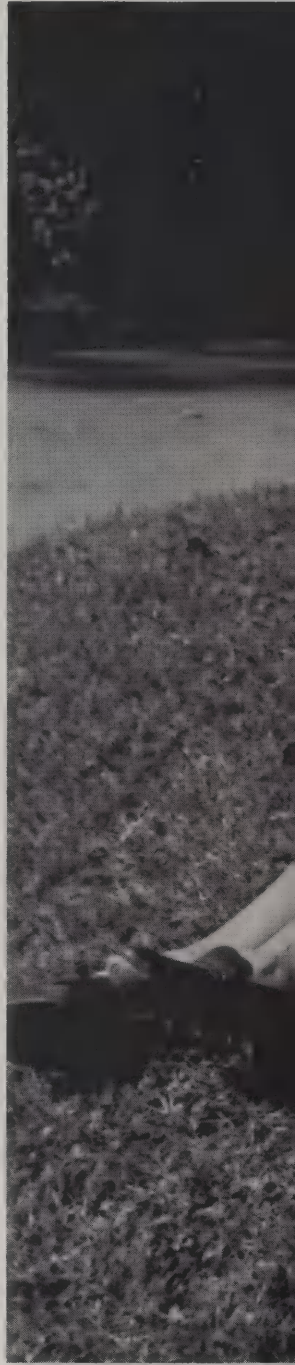

There is communication on the earth

As quiet as the opening of a wing.

— John Malcom Brinnin —

Happiness is speechless.

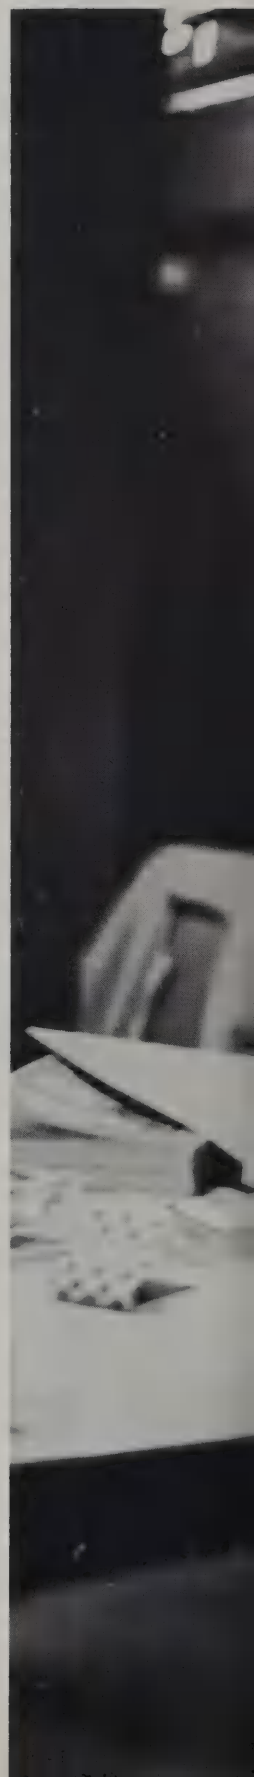

— G. W. Curtis —

*. . . Such philosophic thoughts
That I can rejoice everywhere I go
In the lovable
Oddity
Of things.*

— Carmen Bernos de Gasztold —

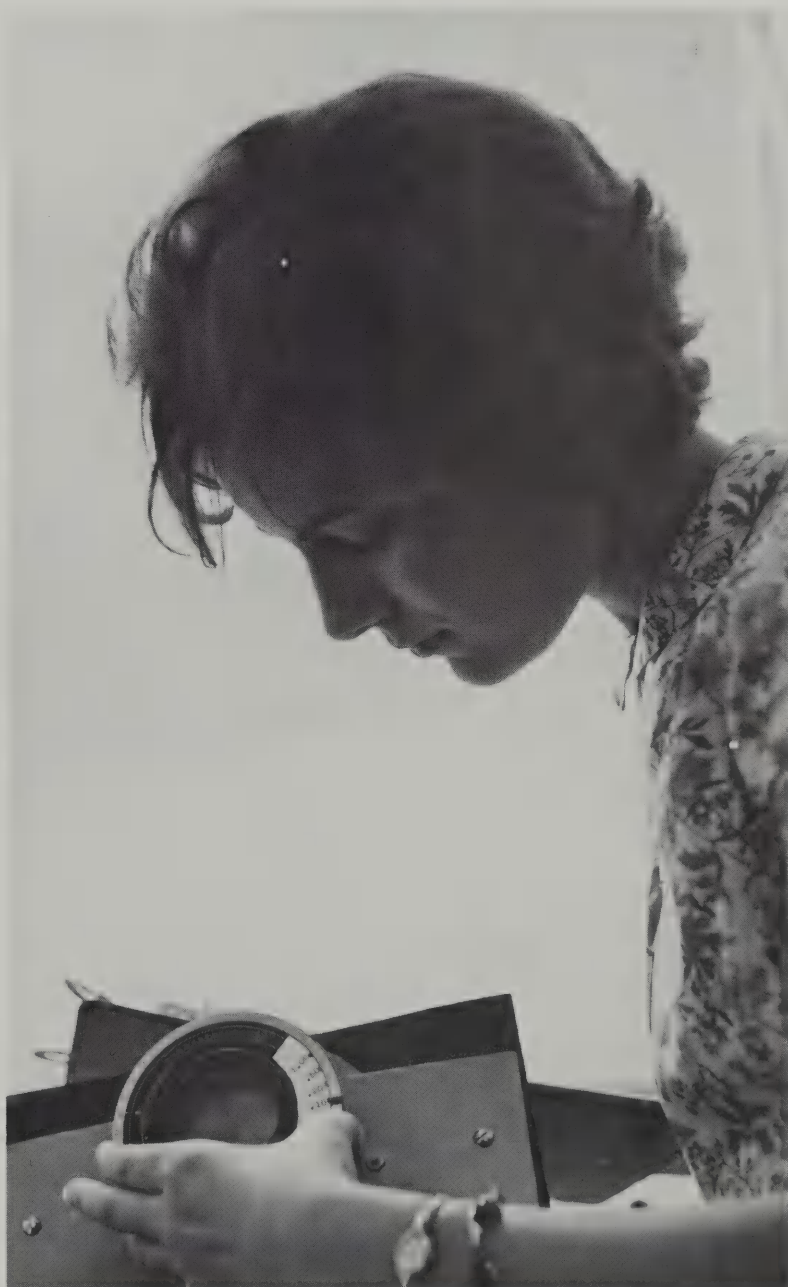

*The curious whether and how:
Whether that which appears so
Is so; or is it all
Flashes and Specks?*

— Walt Whitman —

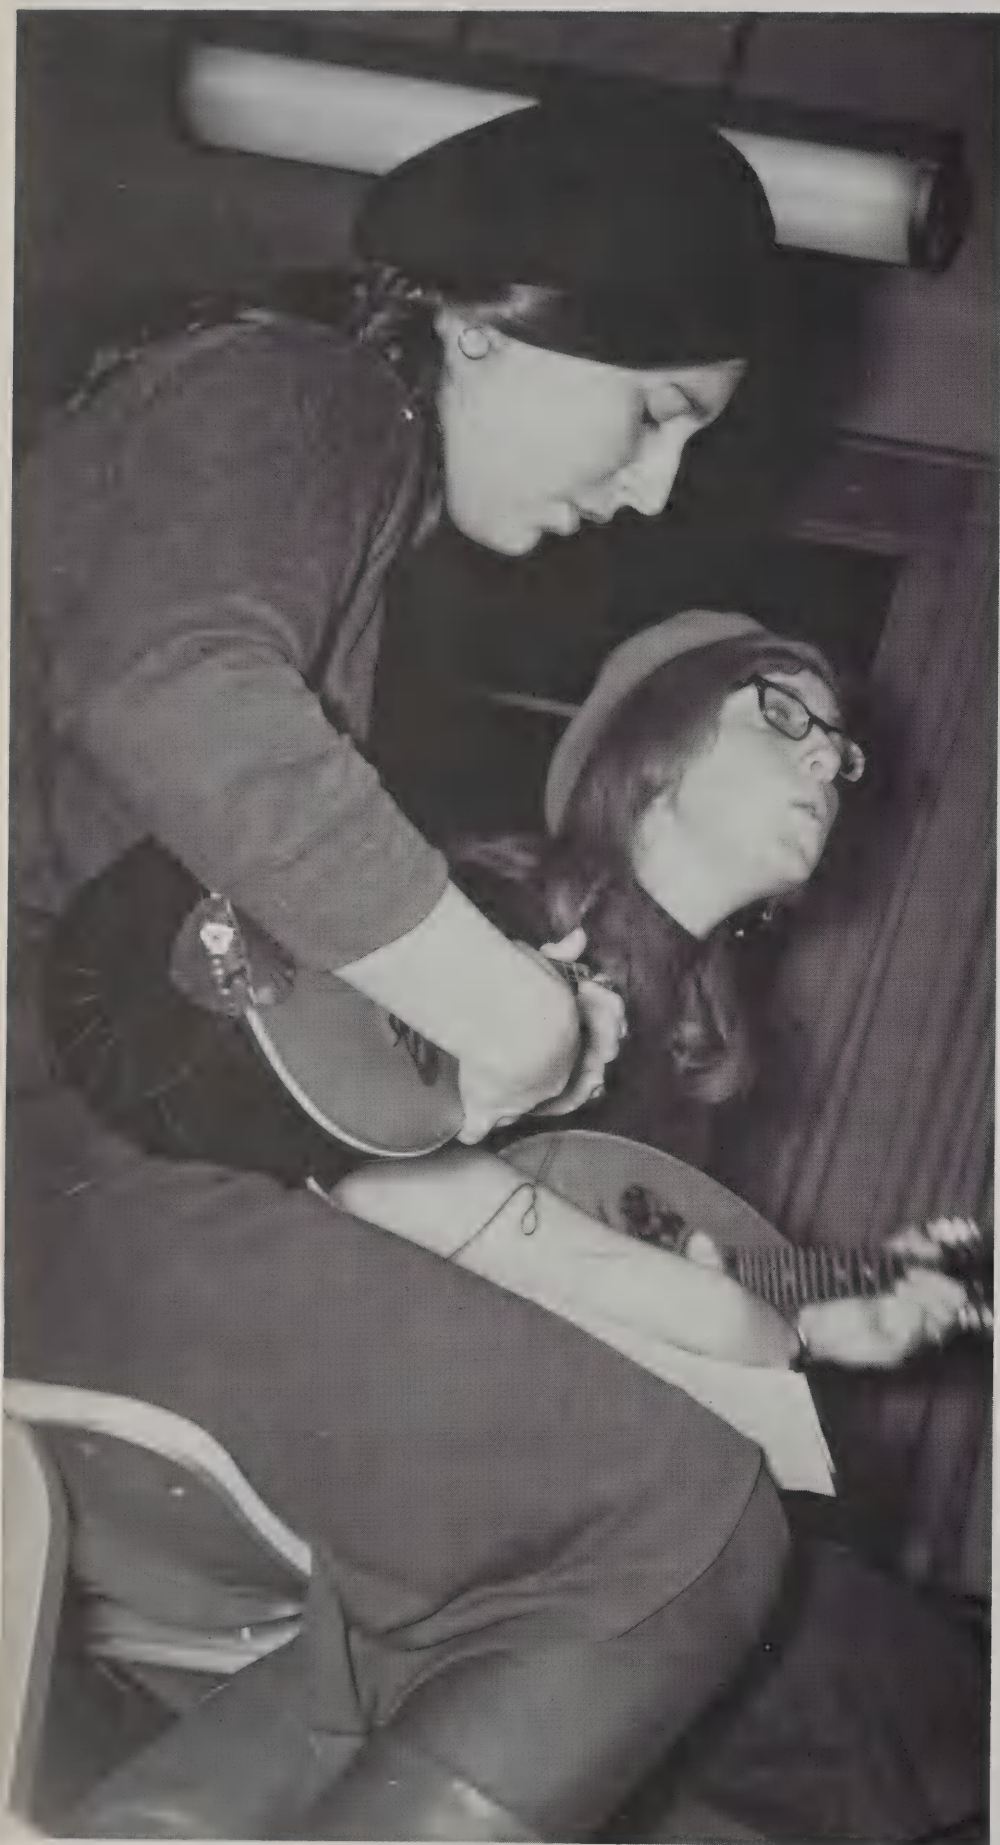

*The curtain falls.
The chairs are bare.
The archetypes are sans their masks;
And the rigid tradition,
The strict abstract of communication,
Echoes in their after chat.*

— M. C. T. —

*She was the single artificer of the world
In which she sang.
And when she sang, the sea,
Whatever self it had,
Became the self that was her song
For she was the maker.*

— Wallace Stevens —

*She knew the life long martyrdom
The weariness, the endless pain*

*Of waiting for someone to come
Who nevermore would come again.*

— Vittoria Colonna —

*Give me time.
Men are always so driven!
Make them understand that I can never hurry.*

*Give me time to eat.
Give me time to plod.
Give me time to sleep.
Give me time to think.*

— Carmen Bernos de Gasztold —

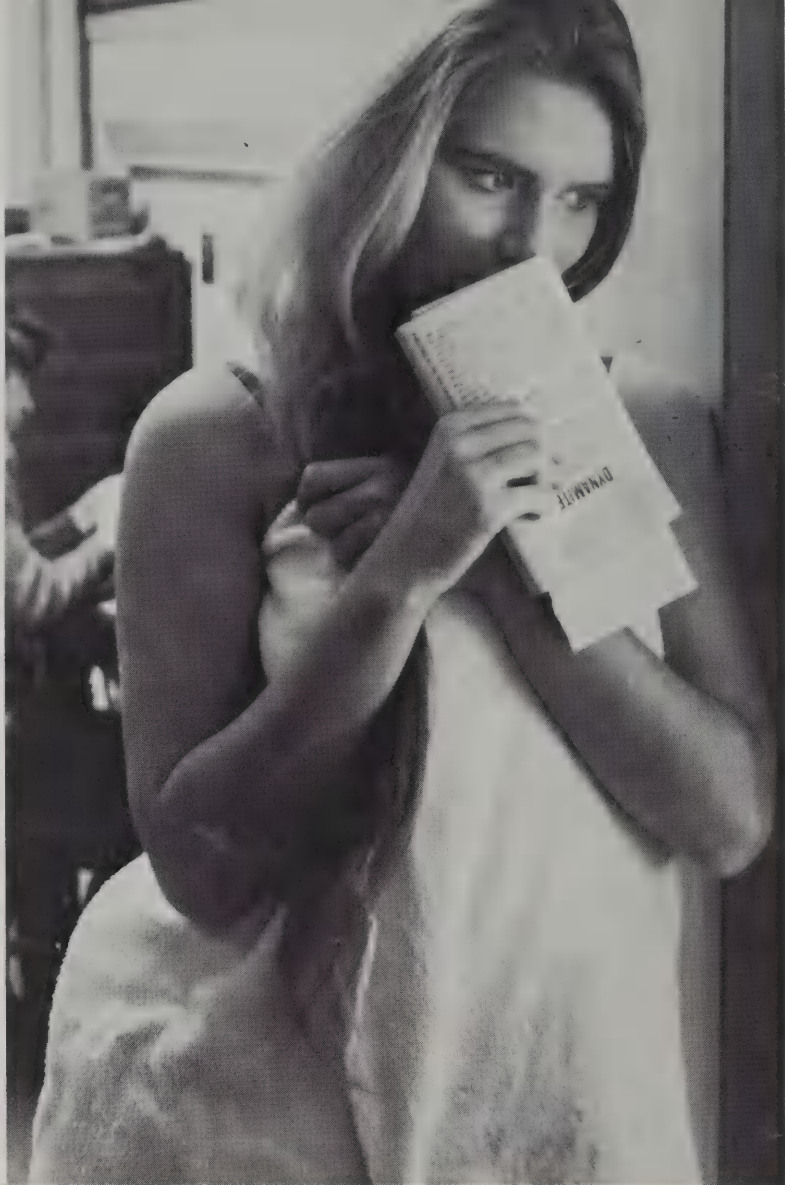

*Small lights of those who meditate at midnight
And lights directed through the colored panes of windows . . .
We see the light but see not whence it comes.*

— T. S. Eliot —

*Passions of rain, or moods in falling snow;
All pleasures and all pains,
Remembering
The bough of summer and the winter branch
These are the measures destined for her soul.*

— Wallace Stevens —

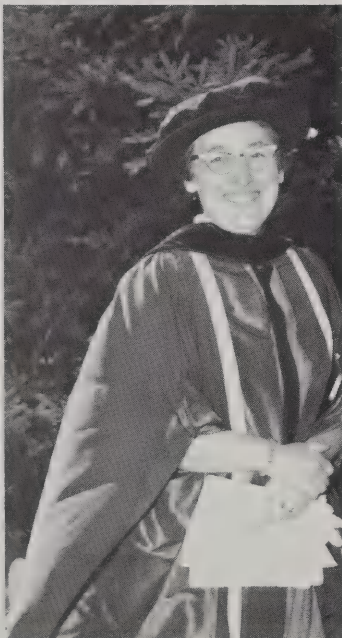

*And the child was led by wise
Who had already been forth,
Who had arrived and who were yet
Always going forth.
And they established
A continuous dialogue day after day
Striving for perfect communication,
Often ending in frustration.*

Leadership through guidance and inspiration.

DEDICATION

Robed in academic excellence.

The Class of 1964 dedicates Nike 1964 to Mrs. Elizabeth S. May in appreciation of the fifteen years of devotion which she has given to Wheaton College in the capacities of professor, dean, and acting president.

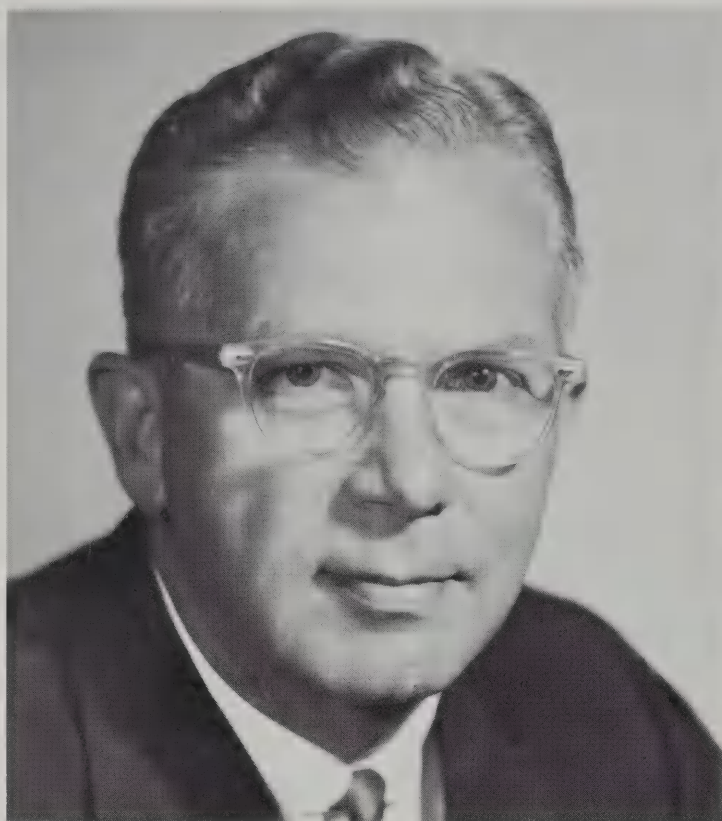

In the crucial year 1961 she brought the experience of professor of economics and researcher in that field to the highest position of the college administration. With these qualifications she has worked conscientiously to correct the errors of the past and to create a blueprint for an orderly future. As teacher she has been a brilliant lecturer and conversationalist whose knowledge reaches far beyond her immediate field of study.

She has listened with a patient sense of humor to the myriad of problems to which deans fall heir; her advice has been both helpful and illuminating. To each of us Mrs. May has been an inspiration to resist stagnation and complacency.

Realizing that Wheaton has no right to claim her permanently, we say good-bye and wish for her future a continuance of the success which she has attained in the past.

TO THE CLASS OF 1964:

Nike, the Goddess of Victory, must have been chosen as a patroness of our yearbook for some forgotten reason. Does she symbolize conquest of childhood, of ignorance, of self, or only of the faculty? I should prefer a heroine of more modest implications, perhaps one who suggested growth and self-confidence and serenity and future promise. Ceres, perhaps? For the victory over ignorance is never won, only begun. The conquest of self has only been approached even in the saintly lives. The achievement of adulthood, in the best sense of that word, may be delayed a few years yet and even then reached only by a few of you.

Your college wishes you success in whatever victories you do seek. May your years at Wheaton stand you in good stead. Greetings and farewell. You will always have a home here.

President

ELIZABETH S. MAY, A.B., PH.D., LL.D.,
Dean of the College

Both in her role as administrator and educator, Mrs. May has worked diligently to further the goals of higher education. Much of her infectious enthusiasm stems from her interest in the field of economics which has led her to publish numerous articles and reports and to do work for the United States government.

NANCY P. NORTON, A.B., PH.D.,
Assistant Dean of the College

Miss Norton's outstanding sportsmanship and fellowship qualities, which received formal recognition from the United States Lawn Tennis Association (1959) are equally reflected in her academic activities here at Wheaton and equally appreciated by those students seeking her aid in academic matters.

Helen Esther Rhodes, Assistant to the Dean of Students

LEOTA C. COLPITTS, A.B., A.M.,
Dean of Students

From charming hostess to wise counselor Miss Colpitts successfully mingles her talent for good cooking with her keen human insight, to be of constant assistance and encouragement to the entire student body. Her current world travels make more apparent her drive for knowledge, and her resultant leave of absence makes it more clear to us that she has been vital to the Wheaton Community.

PAUL FREDERICK CRESSEY
AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT:

During the thirty two years that Mr. Cressey has been at Wheaton, he has established a reputation both as a distinguished teacher and as a well-loved man. While always maintaining high standards of academic excellence, he has always been understanding and patient, giving specific guidance and touching everything with the insight that allows both personal and academic subjects to achieve higher significance. But it is not only for this that we are grateful to him. His home has always been open to students; he has graced everything with the kindness of a quiet humor; he has initiated and organized rewarding lectures, programs, and academic functions.

We deeply appreciate the many things he has done for us, and hope that the years ahead will be as rewarding for him as his years here have been for us.

Mother-love

When I give the signal, pick up the briefcase and run.

Five, four, three, two, one

Moreover . . .

Anyone for dimple dashing?

Son, you've just got to get used to all these girls.

Gone . . . faster than the speed of light.

I tell you, Herb, it's a sure bet!

*Can I go to Amherst
when I grow up?*

Behind every great man . . .

So there!

But daddy . . .

There's something about new sneakers and a spring day.

It's about that peanut butter!

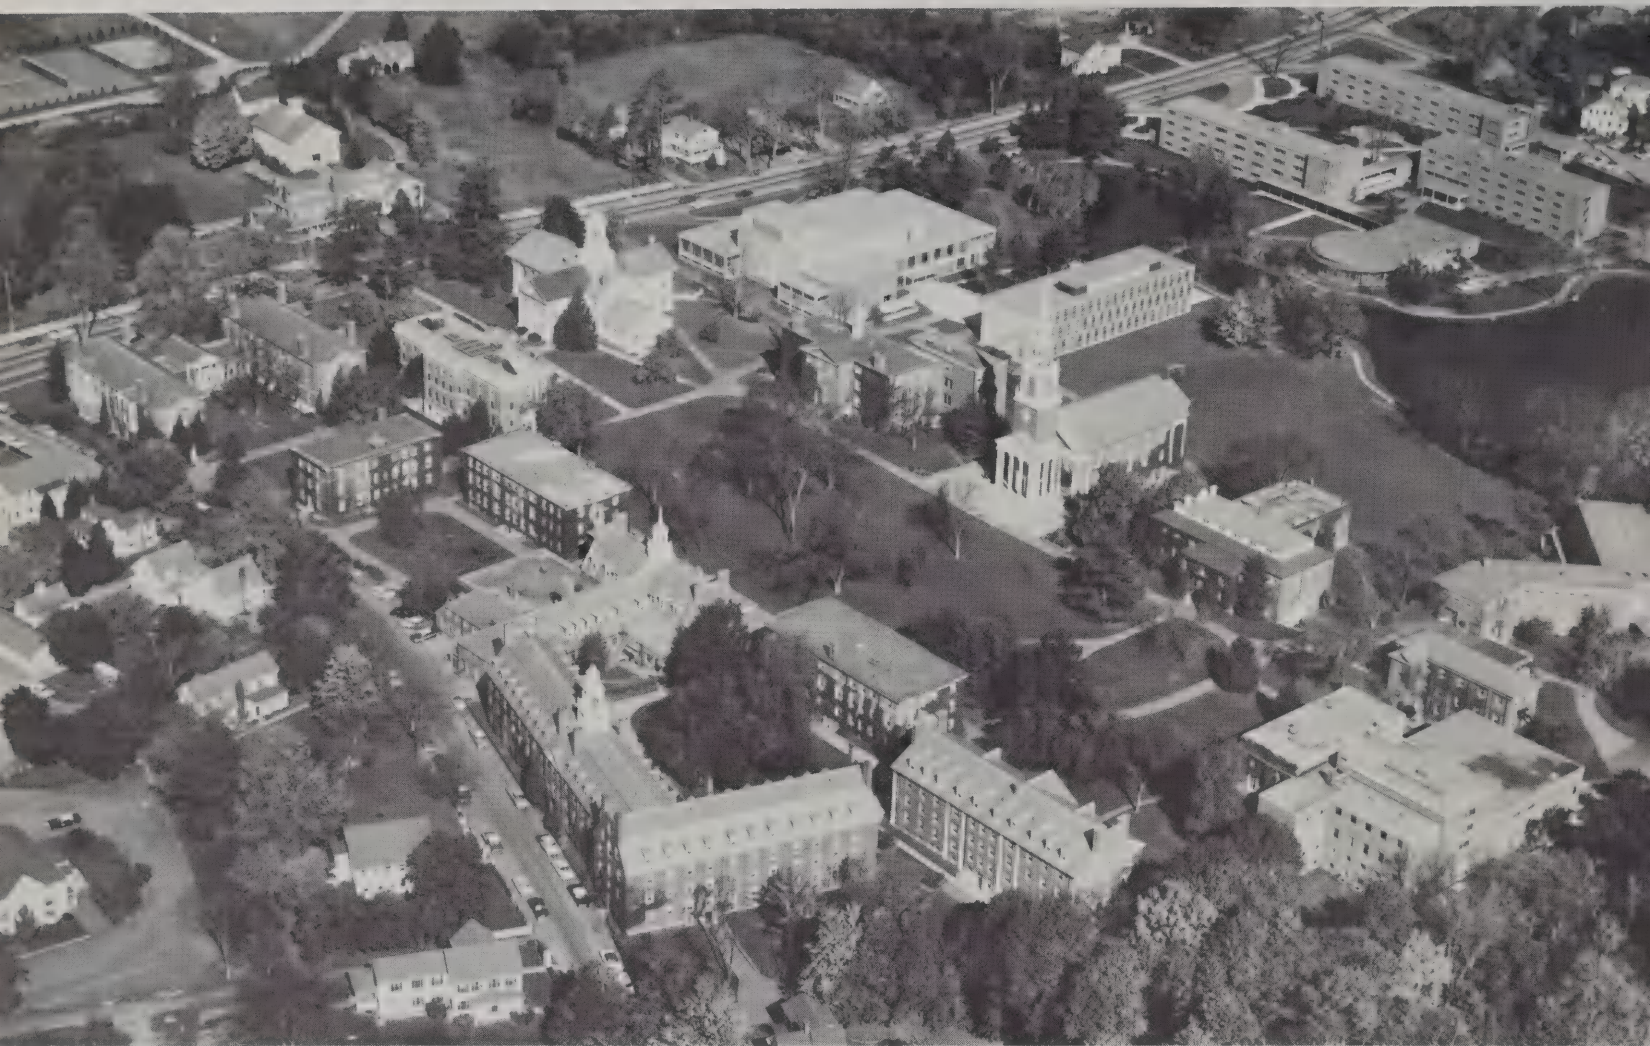

In the beginning

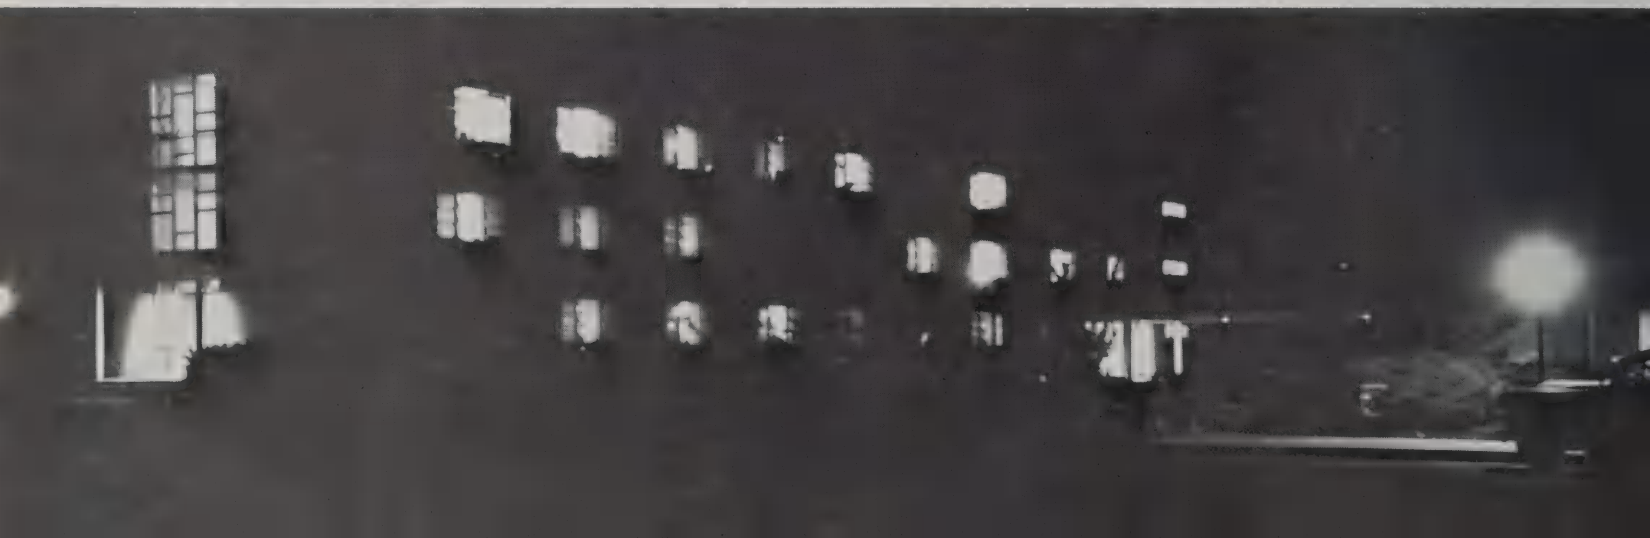

*The child looked around
And saw shadows of herself
Standing alone;
Joining hands they formed a line
And went forth gaily,
And the ponderous journey became
A dance of various arabesques
With many days that slipped away,
Dissolved in laughter.*

The strolling minstrels.

I saw her standing there.

Wanna bet?

Dining and dancing at the King Phillip.

The bird is the word.

It won't be long now, yea yea.

You didn't think Miss Colpitts really did all that cooking, did you?

Singing soiree.

I wanna hold your hand.

A Book For The Coming Years . . .

Your yearbook is a record, in picture and text, of persons and events the mind and heart will return to in the coming years. Each cherished memory evoked will enhance its worth; the quality of the printed book plays no small part in its continuing value.

Bradbury takes great pride in its ability to give unlimited personal service, expertise, enthusiastic guidance, responsibility, workmanship and painstaking craft to each yearbook staff. These are just a few of the factors that are reflected in this book you hold before you.

from the Class of 1965

"Laudamus te..."

from your Sophomore Sisters

Hi-ho! Hi-ho! All sophomores in a row,
We've come to sing your praises high
Laudamus te we sing and say, Oh Hey!
It's honored Seniors' Day.

We'll sing and shout
Your praises out
It's Seniors' Day!

As stately Seniors now you sing upon the libr'y stair,
And use the center Chapel door instead of here and there.
You sing the Alma Mater while we hum the sweet refrain,
Now wise and bearing caps and gowns, your senior year to reign.

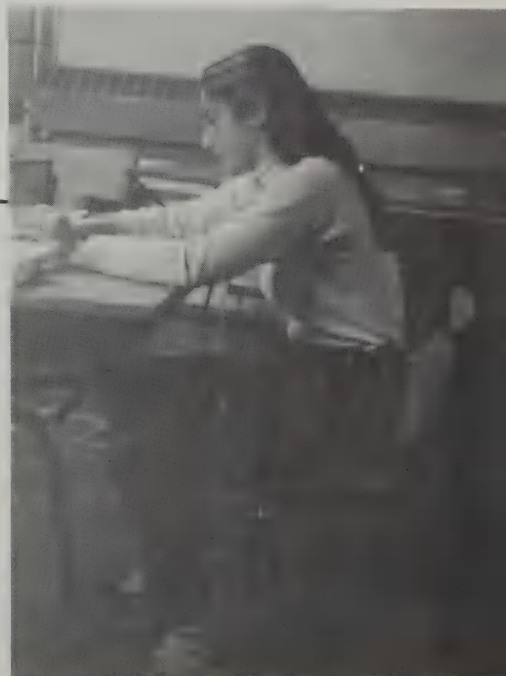

Now we know,
Your noble senior glow,
Will guide us on,
When you are gone,
With a Hi . . . Hi HO!

(sung to the tune of "Hi-ho, It's off to work we go!")

I dreamed I went to the party . . .

I was initiated into the tribe last summer.

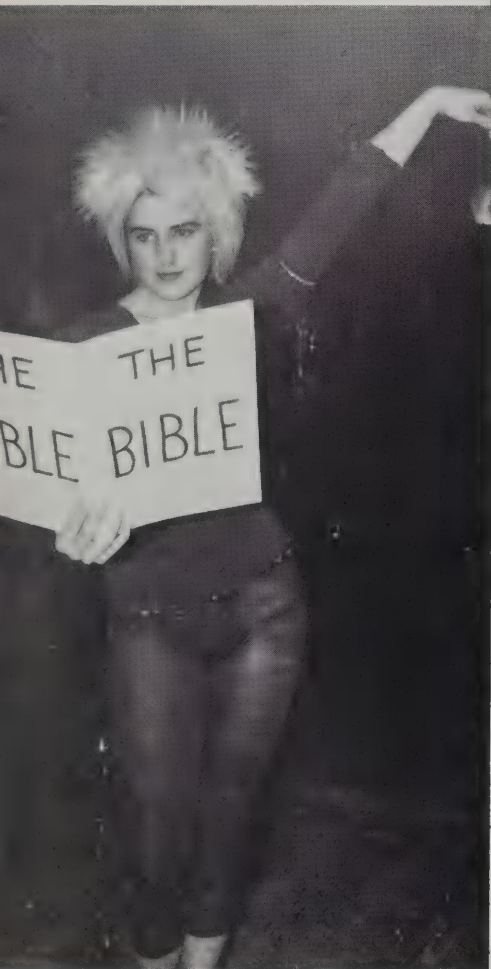

But, we have too many in Modern Drama already.

The temptress.

What's going on here?
